

Pink Pearl crabapples are small to medium-sized, typically around 2 to 5 centimeters (about 1 to 2 inches) in diameter, with a distinctive conical shape and bright pink, juicy flesh beneath translucent, yellowish-green skin, making them great for eating fresh or making colorful applesauce. ↗

Key Characteristics:

- Size: Small to medium.
- Shape: Conical, often with ribbed shoulders.
- Skin: Translucent, yellow-green, sometimes with russetting.
- Flesh: Bright pink to rosy-pink, crisp, juicy, and sweet-tart.
- Flavor: Ranges from tart to sweet-tart, depending on ripeness. ↗

Uses:

- Excellent for fresh eating.
- Makes beautiful, flavorful pink applesauce. ↗

Origin:

- Developed by Albert Etter in California, known for pink-fleshed apples.